

Review of Manuscript # 2005/108:

Reviewer #2

This manuscript describes the methods used in a research dissemination project undertaken by the Maternity Center Association to alert providers, consumers, and policy makers about the risks of cesarean birth. The lead director of the project and author is mentioned by name in the manuscript. Although the manuscript is well written, it does not describe original research, the results of a meta-analysis, or a solution to a methodological problem. As such, it is not in keeping with the purposes of this journal.
